ONLY ONE "BEST"

Norway People Give Credit Where Credit is Due

People of Norway who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Norway. Here's Norway testimony:

Mrs. P. Walker, living on Cottage St., Norway, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and must acknowledge that I have been greatly benefited. While my case was in no way serious, I was in misery all the time. Symptoms pointed to severe kidney disorder and learning of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to try the remedy and procured a box from Stone's drug store. In a short time I felt much better, continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills and steadily improved. I can recommend them as an excellent remedy for kidney disease."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and no other. 49 50

Miles Holmes's Dream.

Written for the Advertiser.

Miles Holmes' home was in Buckfield town. He was a local wit and a village wag, a person whom few cared to neglect.

The village store was his parliament where he held his court. Every Saturday found him there.

And on milder days when the village square was full of boys and men all hale, who came for various bits and dabs, to take the drill and see the fun, from morning till late of day.

The backside dwelt within the town, and Lottrop's, too, of small renown; Each clan had somehow put its name Upon the district whence it came.

Each was quite numerous as been told, in their own haunts in days of old.

Squire Loring's store, at eventide Was where these clans somewhat allied; On Saturday night took bolter stand; and quarrels tried hard to land.

On someone's head besides their own, Townsman or stranger in the town, Miles came up to the store one night, These clans were in it, all bedight.

Squire Loring passed the time of day With Miles, his neighbor, then did say, "I hope I find you well, I'm sure."

"As well as well," Miles demurely, "I will relate to this company; I dreamt that I had passed away, Dead but as new as new."

How long it was I lay in sleep, Devoted of life, a dead sleep, or very not say till the Master spoke And the day of resurrection broke;

Then Gabriel his trumpet blew, The dead arose, made anew, and came they forth both one and all, At the angel's call.

When came an angel bold and fair, With deep blue eyes and curling hair, Within his hand a book of gold, So ponderous that it well might hold The names of all assembled there.

Upon squares in heaven's neighborhood, He called the names, the angel bright, He called out the pages white, He sentenced them at last, each one According to deed they had done.

Was afraid, Squire, he'd call Miles Holmes, And began to tremble in my bones, "I am not the angel called my name, Well, I couldn't seem a word to frame Until he spoke in louder tones, 'As you present to Miles Holmes'."

I summoned courage then, and cheek, And answered prompt and true, "The angel glanced the white page o'er, As I stood trembling, him, before, Then said, 'Miles Holmes, the page I scan, Shows you have been a good man, You're put on your behavior, good, Six months in the Paradise neighborhood.'"

"Then said Squire Loring, 'Miles,' he said, 'My heart with anguish deep was blest, 'On angel fair, if you've mercy any', I cried, 'Just send me to Paradyse, South Paris, Me.' DANA HAWKINS.

BLOOD

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor. There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high we are being refreshed—bone, muscle and brain, in body and mind—with continual flow of rich blood. This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take

Why Suffer?
Breathe Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome
Catarrh Germ.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit, and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germ of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigor and vitality.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germ and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australian dry air treatment.
Frank Kimball, the druggist, will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh, or money back. Don't delay this pleasant antiseptic treatment. Breathe in Hyomei and kill the germ.

Frank Kimball will sell you a complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler, for only $1.00. It is also guaranteed, to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds, hay fever and croup. 48-51

ABOUT CHECKS

A bank is not liable to the holder of a check until it accepts or certifies the check, and a bank is not bound to make partial payment on a check if the drawer has not sufficient funds to his credit to make full payment.

If a depositor draws several checks aggregating more than he has standing to his credit, the bank pays them in the order of presentation, without regard to dates or numbers, until the depositor's credit is exhausted. The bank may refuse to honor checks subsequently presented.

Every check must be endorsed. The endorsement should be on the back of the check as near the left end as possible in order to make room for subsequent endorsements.

These are a few facts about checks not as generally known as they should be. The convenience and safety of having a checking account at THE NORWAY NATIONAL BANK OF NORWAY, MAINE, should also be known and appreciated by every farmer and business man in this section of the state.

Bilious attacks, sick-headaches, indiges-

What Santa Claus did for Animals

The midnight bells were ringing.
Santa Claus was driving posthaste through the streets. There were many people passing to and fro, but no one saw him. Large feathery snowflakes obscured his sleigh, and his eight reindeer were spreading along as silently as the snowflakes. There were no dolls or skates or sleds or toys of any kind in his sleigh, because he had just finished filling the children's stockings.

Now he had other work to do. So he gave the reindeer to his reindeer, and guided them down a narrow street to a stable. The hostlers were asleep. Santa Claus glided past them into the stalls and quickly lengthened the halters of the horses so that they could lie down and rest their tired legs.

Hastening
from stable to stable he went to the harness rooms and left out the checkreins, and took away some of the cruel bits, leaving other bits in their place. He put engaged apples in the manger and gave a double quantity of apples to the doctored horses, at the same time saying: "Poor creatures, I'm going to put a stop to this cruel business of cutting off your beautiful tails."

Then, jumping into his sleigh, he drove to another part of the city, where he found lame and sick horses. Taking off his fur mittens he rubbed the poor animals' stiff and aching legs with liniment, and filled the empty mangers with hay and oats, and in a jiffy he mended all the lame horses he could find. In an old tumble-down shed he spied a galled mule shivering with the cold.
Quick as a flash Santa Claus put a blanket on the half-frozen animal, gave it a bundle of hay, and nailed boards over the holes in the shed.

As this good-hearted friend rode from place to place he threw a blanket over every horse that stood exposed to the snow storm in the streets, and he threw food to all the stray cats and dogs.

In every house he gave seed and water to the neglected canaries and fresh water to the goldfishes.

The sparrows roosting under the eaves of the buildings, and the pigeons and doves in the church towers took their heads from under their wings and saw this most kind friend of theirs. They were as he threw a shower of grain to the birds, and in the twinkling of an eye was out of sight.

Then on he fled to the country farm-yards where he surprised the sleeping pigs and sows and sows and sows and cattle and sheep with chopped pumpkins and a supply of rock salt. To the pigs he gave long ears of yellow corn, and he flung a shower of grain to the ducks, turkeys, geese and guinea fowls.

Having finished his Christmas round with the domestic animals, Santa gave a long, shrill whistle, and away he sped to the woods, where he found the owls wide awake, watching for him.

"Merry Christmas, my wise friends," cried Santa, tossing packages of meat up to the trees.

"Tu-whit, tu-who, a merry Christmas to you," sang back the owls from far and near.

Santa had been very busy while in the city and around the farmyards, but when he reached the woods he felt perfectly at home. There many animals were waiting for him. The woods were all aglow with bright eyes, watching for the jolly little man and his reindeer.

There was a rustling of little feet, and only a troop of rabbits and woodchucks came creeping close to Santa's sleigh, standing on their hind legs to receive beads of cabbage and celery.

The squirrels and chipmunks were fast asleep, the weather being too cold for them to be out of their nests; but kind Santa slipped a nut into the mouth of each, a happy surprise for the little animals.

All the birds were ready for their Christmas dinner, nor did Santa Claus even forget the wild bees. They all wished Santa Claus a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

on Thursday, Nov. 26. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Knistson and was born Oct. 27, 1885. He attended school at Lovell and Biddeford High school.
He moved with his parents when 13 years of age to the farm in No. 4, where he has always lived. He was a contractor and builder until health failed about four years ago since which he has done carpenter work as his health would permit.

He had been a member of the school board for three years. He was an attendant of the Universalist church and in politics a Democrat.

In 1891 he married at Biddeford, Bertha A. Gammon of Stoneham, who with five children survive him. The oldest,
Albert C., is a student at Fryeburg Academy. The other children are Frank L., Hazel M., Marion B., and Bertha S., only three years old and all at home.

Albert has left his school to be with his mother and the children. He also leaves four sisters and one brother: Mrs. W. R.
Kneeland, Bridget; Mrs. H. E. Farrington, Bridget; Mrs. Wm. Woodbury Small,
Mrs. Henry Goodridge Biddeford;
W. H. Knistson, Lovell.

The funeral was at his late home Nov.
9 at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Reeves of the Congregational church being the officiating clergyman. Undertaker Chas.
H. Brown had charge of the services and he was laid at rest in the cemetery at
No. 4 by brothers of Delta lodge F. &
A. M. The Grange attended in a body.
These were flowers from friends:

Chrysanthemums and geraniums—Family.
Wreath, bearing emblem square and compass and G—Delta Lodge F. & A. M.
Large bouquet white roses with inscription,
Past Master—G. H. Suncock Grange, 43 pins—Sisters.
Chrysanthemums—Mrs. Geo. Smith.
Geraniums—Mrs. O. E. Andrews.
Cut flowers—Mrs. H. B. McKee, Mrs. Lyman Hilton.

Mr. Knistson had been afflicted with heart trouble for years but his death was a shock to his family and friends as he had been about his business every day and left home that morning in his usual good health and seemed in good spirits all day. Just before his day's work was finished, about 5 o'clock, he was asked to have a door opened. Before they reached the door he fell and expired instantly.
Physicians and his wife were summoned and everything possible was done. He was working at G. A. Kimball's, Center Lovell, and less than five minutes before he fell, he was playing with their little boy Myron.

As he always made much of little children his baby Bertha misses him so much. His was a kind genial nature with a ready smile and pleasant word for all. He has been in poor health but has worked all he could for his family and was so cheerful that no one realized how ill he was. He had such a robust figure that it was hard for strangers to realize his condition.

He was a charter member of Suncock Grange, No. 140, and took an active interest in the Grange work from the first, being elected to office on date of reorganization he has held office in the Order ever since until the present year, serving as master two terms. He was appointed State deputy by State Master Gardner in 1907 and many patrons will remember the efficient work he gave when visiting their Granges in official capacity, having committed the ritualistic and installation services wholly. Mr. and Mrs. Kn-istson attended the State Grange at Augusta and Lewiston, and at the latter place he was chairman of committee on constitution and by-laws. He worked for the interest of the Order and added many members by his interest and work.

He was a respected townsman, his honor undoubted, and will be sadly missed by all, Masons, Grangers, friends, and more than all in his home, which is left desolate, for he was ever the kindest of husbands and fathers.

BRYANT'S FOND.

Located on the Knoll.

Who ever knew such lovely weather as we are having this fall, and December is keeping the record good. Work is going on well in grading for the foundation of the public library, which was donated to the town by Mrs. Eleanor Whitman. It will be located on the "Knoll" next to the Grange hall.

The Foliot, lying between the Grange hall and the Fred Stevens place and extending back to the mineral spring from the street, has been purchased by the town for the site of the new public library which will soon be erected. The building will be erected as soon as possible.

Bryant Pond is certainly looking up once more. In spite of the severe setback encountered by the loss of the town's leading industries the town has been slowly recovering and today the prospect is bright for a good healthy building boom the coming season. There is every indication that the proposed new hotel will be built before the close of another season. Then the foundation is all in for a machine shop near Rick's blacksmith shop. Hon. Isaac Hall is making plans for the erection of a $6,000 cottage at Hall's Point on Lake Christopher, and L. M. Mann & Son contemplate re-building their clothespin factory here. All in all it looks as if $25,000 to $30,000 would be spent in building operations which is not a bad outlook for a small town. With no disrespect to our neighbors we believe that Bryant Pond is destined to take its place in the very front rank of Oxford county villages as a live, progressive and prosperous little town.

Mrs. Susan Frye Ballard.

Undertaken by the lowly weather of Wednesday, Nov. 25th, many relatives and friends assembled at the home of Dean A. Ballard, West Fryeburg, to participate in the obsequies of their late kinswoman and neighbor, Mrs. Susan F. Ballard, who on Nov. 23d passed peacefully away into the rest that remaineth for the beloved of the Heavenly Father.

October 4th last, she had completed ninety-nine full years of earthly life, and on the day received several of her most intimate friends, conversing with them freely and cheerfully, but some days later the change which culminated in her death was observed by those who attended her. From bodily pain she died not great sufferer but rather from the weariness of living due to her extreme age and physical weakness she longed for the release so near.

Mrs. Ballard, daughter of Abraham and Sarah Frye Andrus, was a native of West Fryeburg, where she lived continuously except for a very brief time in her early married life, when her residence was in North Fryeburg. She had been a successful teacher previous to her marriage with George Ballard, playmate of her school days. These two loving and well beloved made a home bright with true domestic happiness in which were reared the five sons who grew to maturity and two fair daughters, who died in early youth.

Thomas, John A. and Edward, served in the Union army in the war of the States and returned after honorable service to their homes. One, Edward, died several years ago in a western city where he resided, a practicing physician. George Ballard died in 1888, being over eighty years of age, and having given over to his son, Dean A., the management and care of the homestead, the widowed mother continued to occupy her own place in the home, where every attention that loving hearts could devote or willing hands bestow has been accorded to her.

Mrs. Ballard was a member of the Congregational church of Fryeburg and a teacher in the Sunday school connected with that church, being possible to the end of her life. Several years ago she became a member of the Stirling Literary club, which gave her membership in the Maine State Federation of women's clubs as also in the General Federation, and she was undoubtedly the oldest club woman in the country, if not in the world.

She was beloved by the several members, who in readings or remarks would adapt their efforts to her slightly impaired hearing so that she was able to participate in the exercises with pleasure and profit that was mutual.

At the funeral after the reading of Scriptural selections, Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Stone of Fryeburg spoke, in words of loving appreciation of her love, her character, her domestic abilities and the bright mentality possessed by her and calling attention of those present to the lesson given by the example of her consistent Christian life. A prayer by Rev. Mr. Wilson closed the services at the house and after loved ones had taken their last look upon the placid beauty of the aged face enhanced by the beautiful flowers enwrathing it and covering the casket, the precious mortal remains were borne to the cemetery near by and committed to their last earthly rest. "One of a thousand," the writer recalls hearing a life long friend speak of the dear departed one.

Neighbors who served as bearers were B. Walker McKee, N. R. Hardy, Byron Hutchins and Edwin L. Walker. A sister and brother of Mrs. Ballard survive her, Mrs. Abby Burbank and Joseph Andrews of Hurley, South Dakota. The four surviving sons are Eckley, of Fryeburg, who is Registrar of Deeds of West Oxford Co., Melville, Professor at Galatun, and Dean A. Ballard of West Fryeburg. Many grandchildren and great-grandchildren will cherish the memory of their dear grandparent long and lovingly.

A Serious Accident.
Charles Faulkner was seriously injured Wednesday night, Nov. 25th. Mr. Faulkner came from Lewiston to Mechanic Falls on the late trolley car and was walking to South Paris on the railroad when he was struck by a freight engine running from Mechanic Falls and knocked down by the side of the road unconscious. He carried a large grip in the left hand and remembers hearing the train approaching and turned around to see it, stepping to one side to allow it to pass. He evidently did not get out of danger as he also remembers being struck by the locomotive and pushed to one side. The train did not run over him but did run over the grip, cutting it into two pieces.

It is thought that his hand must have been caught in some portion of the engine as the hand and forearm were pulled from the arm at the elbow joint, and were found upon the railroad the next day, while neither overcoat nor undershirt showed any signs of cutting or mangling. The accident occurred at the curve on the G. T. R. R. nearly opposite the Stuart farm, at about 2 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Faulkner remained unconscious for some hours, but a doctor recovered sufficiently to walk to the Stuart place and summon help.

The physicians found the humerus, the large bone of the arm, so badly shattered in its lower portion that they were obliged to amputate the arm about halfway between the elbow and shoulder. There was a large cut over the left hip requiring several stitches, and he was in a generally broken up condition but is reported on the road to recovery. Mr. Faulkner is not known here, but having worked in the woolen-mill and also for several farmers in different parts of the town, Mr. Faulkner had been in Lewiston, buying new clothes throughout, and was on his way to spend Thanksgiving with a sister in Waterford. It proved an unfortunate and sad Thanksgiving day for him.

The trustees of the Congregational church called a parish meeting on Friday evening, Nov. 27th, to take action regarding the resignation of their pastor, Rev. Mr. Newport, and to devise means well for to accept the resignation of Mr. Newport and instructed the trustees to fill the vacancy. Rev. Mr. Newport has been with us many years, and not only has served his parishioners in a most acceptable manner but he has been a counselor, a kind friend and a good counsellor. During his long pastorate he has made a large circle of friends, not only in this town but in adjoining towns as well. Mr. Newport has always given freely of his time for the promotion of any worthy object, and his words of advice and sound common sense have always commanded attention and created a favorable impression. As a pastor Mr. Newport has served his parish well. His weekly sermons have been full of interest and instruction and always contained some well made point upon our daily life and his discourse always tended to bring out the best there is in us. His sermons to the different fraternal organizations have been well attended and eagerly listened to. His words of good cheer to the dying and his words of consolation to those left behind have been the means of comforting many a one approaching the unknown shore, and of lightening the burden of sorrow, of those left to mourn. Mr. Newport goes to his new pastorate with the best wishes for his success, not only of his parishioners but of his many lay friends as well. May he be spared many years to work in his new field of labor, and may he always attain that success which is unqualifiedly due him. Mr. Newport preaches his last parish sermon on Sunday, Dec. 6th, and his many friends will attend to pay their respects to him as pastor, man and friend.

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Without Morphine or Dangerous Drugs, Cures Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles, Prevents Pneumonia. 50 Years in Use.

Stories of the Christmas Plant.

"Now of all the trees by king's highway Which do I love the best? Oh! the one that's green on Christmas day; The holly with the berries bright; The holly with drops of blood for me. For that is our dear Aunt Mary's tree."

This runs an ancient carol still sung by the children at dawn of Christmas morning in Cornwall, Eng., the Cornish people calling the mother of Jesus, by the familiar title of "Aunt."

When the ground is covered with snow which glistens and sparkles in the sunlight as if it were diamonds, the holly is seen to its greatest advantage. The scarlet berries, however, are the great source of its beauty. It is a small and slow-growing tree whose wood is hard, white, of fine grain and very valuable. Maine's holly comes from Maryland and Delaware where the shrub became a tree.

Did you ever think as you put up the holly and mistletoe, that you were following the custom of the Romans and the ancient Druids? Hundreds of years ago the old Romans used to celebrate the Saturnalia, a feast in honor of Saturn, and during the feast green boughs were hung upon the walls of their homes. In the days of the early Christians, holly was used because its sharp tipped leaves were supposed to symbolize "the crown of thorns the Saviour wore, and the scarlet berries the drops of blood He shed."

The holly as well as the mistletoe has always been connected with blazing yule-log and Christmas cheer of New as well as Old England.

The Druids were the first to use mistletoe, and it held a peculiar place in their religious worship. They gathered it at the time of the winter-solstice with great ceremony. Five days after the new moon they formed a triumphal procession to a sacred oak on which the mistletoe grew. First came the white-clad bards, chanting and then a herald, bearing a golden scythe. The arch-druid cut the plant, while attendant priests standing behind him, robes outspread, caught the sacred branch before it reached the ground. It was separated into tiny pieces and distributed among the people to be used as a medicine. Sprays of mistletoe, blessed by the priests, were given to the people who hung them over their doors as an offer of shelter to the gods of the forest during the cold weather.

By and by the priests from Rome came over to Great Britain and taught of Christianity, and Roman ceremonies took the place of the Druid rites. All that is left of the latter now is this custom of trimming with the Christmas greens.

It is claimed that the idea of kissing under the mistletoe originated from the bit of Scandinavian mythology. The myth tells that Loki hated Balder, the Apollo of the North. Everything "that springs from fire, air, earth and water" had given his promise under oath not to hurt Balder, except the mistletoe, which was deemed too insignificant to be asked. Loki made an arrow of mistletoe, which he gave to blind Hoder to shoot and aim at random. It killed Balder who was restored to life at the request of the gods. The mistletoe was then given to the goddess of love to keep, and everyone who passed under it received a kiss to show that it was the emblem of love.

Centuries later in Merrie England the custom of kissing under the mistletoe was in vogue. A maiden not kissed would not be married before the next Christmas-tide. One of the waxen berries was removed each time a kiss was given and when the last berry had disappeared a young man was no longer privileged to kiss the maiden caught beneath its shadow.

By the early Christians it was held to be especially sacred because its berries which grew in clusters of three were regarded as an emblem of the holy trinity.

Hung around the neck a strand of it would serve to ward off danger. Placed in the doorway it protected all who passed below.

Its peculiar habit of growth is exceedingly interesting. It belongs to the family of parasitic plants, for it lives by rooting itself, not directly into the soil but into the bark of trees where it grows as long as the tree lives, sometimes attaining a spread of three feet. From New Jersey southward it grows mostly upon the live oaks.

An appropriate green for decoration at the holiday season is the sturdy Christmas fern. When used in conjunction with red elder berries it closely rivals the holly. The club-mosses are also in high favor at this time.

But by far the most beautiful of all Christmas plants is the Christmas rose which grows on the drear snow covered peaks of the Siberian mountains and blooms only at this season. The white blossom is said to last a day and a night and then melt away with the snow. Out of a buried summer this child of bloom arises as the Child of a love divine comes into our hearts.

It is perfectly wonderful but today the Bible exists in five hundred languages and is the most popular book of all the "best sellers." At the beginning of the last century it existed only in fifty different tongues at the most. It went into more languages during the nineteenth century than in the eighteen previous centuries. In some cases the Bible is the means of creating the first written form of a language, and in others the only method of preserving them.

FEEBLE OLD LADY

Has Strength Restored By Vinol

Mrs. Michael Bloom of Lewistown, Pa., who is 80 years of age, says: "For a long time I have been so feeble that I have had to be wheeled around in an invalid's chair. I had no strength and took cold at the slightest provocation, which invariably settled on my lungs, and a cough would result. My son learned of the cod liver preparation called Vinol, and procured a bottle for me. It built up my strength rapidly, and after taking three bottles I am able to do most of my work, and I can walk a quarter of a mile easily. Every aged or weak person who requires strength should try Vinol. I am delighted with what it has done for me."

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unexcelled. If it fails to give satisfaction we will return your money. Frank P. Stone, Druggist, Norway.

Cures Catarrh.

F. P. Stone, Norway, Will Furnish the Medicine Free in Every Case Where They Fail to Cure Catarrh.

Neglect or pessimism we believe is the greatest enemy the public have to contend with when applied to the loss or recovery of health. Practically every case of consumption might have been cured if hope had been maintained and proper treatment had been resorted to at the first symptom of the disease. Until the advanced stage is reached, consumption is curable. Catarrh is responsible, we believe, for every case of consumption. It is about Catarrh we want to talk to you today, incidentally consumption, since the two are so closely allied.

We have a medicine made from the prescription of one of the most successful catarrh specialists known. This medicine has a record of 98 per cent. of cures, and we believe it is positively without an equal. We are so satisfied that we are right, that we will supply the medicine free in every instance where the medicine first in every instance where it is used according to directions for a reasonable length of time and fails to cure and give satisfaction in every particular. We want everyone in Norway to try this medicine at our risk. There are no conditions or formality attached to our offer. We put the user under no obligation to us whatever.

The medicine we want you to try is Rexall Mucuo-Tone. It is a catarrh remedy that goes direct to the seat of trouble. It is carried by the blood to every part of the system. It seeks out and destroys the germs or parasites which cause Catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones up the mucous cells, soothes and heals the tissues that were ravaged by the catarrhal parasites and brings about a condition of health and strength from ever getting a start. Besides this, Rexall Mucuo-Tone is a wonderful appetizer, digestive aid and flesh builder. Its good effects are felt from the very first dose. It is one of the largest and most satisfactory selling medicines that we have ever had anything to do with. We know so much of the great good that it has done that we personally back it up with our reputation and money, which fact should be ample guarantee to satisfy anybody.

Rexall Mucuo-Tone comes in two sizes, 50c and $1.00. We urge you to try it. F. P. Stone, Norway, Me.
